Description

If you are considering providing care and learning opportunities for children whom you are not related to, in your own home, for more than 2 hours per day, for reward, then you must register with Ofsted as a Childminder.

This introductory course will provide you with information and support to increase your knowledge and understanding about the role of a professional Childminder, the registration process and running a successful childminding service.

What will I learn?

During the course, we will explore:

- The role of a professional Childminder and what is involved in running a childminding service;
- Guidance around Ofsted and an overview of the registration requirements for new childminders;
- The skills, knowledge and competencies needed to fulfil the role, including mandatory training;
- An overview of the Early Years Foundation Stage and where to find out more information; and
- The business of running a childminding service including business planning, fees and marketing.
